Our perfumes

Welcome to our Olfazeta world, where each fragrance tells a unique story and invites you to embark on an unforgettable sensory journey.

Among the most popular products of Chogan Group S.p.A., Olfazeta perfumes are the result of a refined experience in perfumery, an in-depth knowledge of olfactory notes and a long-standing passion for essences.

Our creations are a tribute to diversity: different and fascinating scents blend together in surprising combinations, resulting in irresistible fragrances for her, for him and unisex.

Each perfume has its own identity, a symphony of notes that intertwine to create pure emotion.
Every fragrance reveals a universe that comes alive on the skin, a story to be lived and remembered through your scent.

Olfazeta perfumes are designed for those who boldly follow their own rules,choosing to be unconventional. Our fragrances are created for all those who want to choose who they are, who wish to break the mould and express their own essence.

Your life is a masterpiece.
Your skin, the canvas.
Your perfume, your signature.

Choose an Olfazeta fragrance and leave your mark on the world.

Olfactory notes

Each fragrance is an accord of olfactory notes, a balance of skilfully combined scents. Each fragrance is characterised by the perfect balance of the notes of which it is composed, described by its olfactory pyramid, which represents the three moments in the life of a fragrance and is divided into head notes, heart notes and base notes.

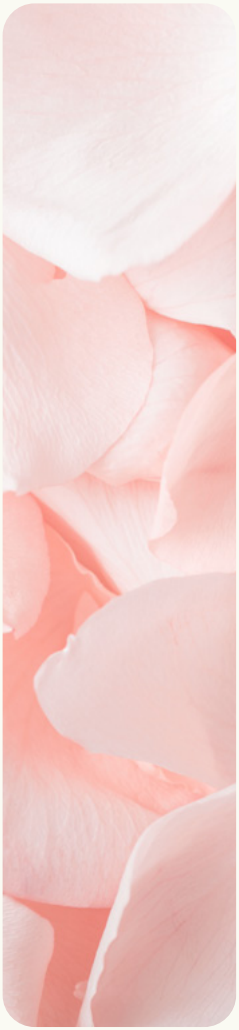

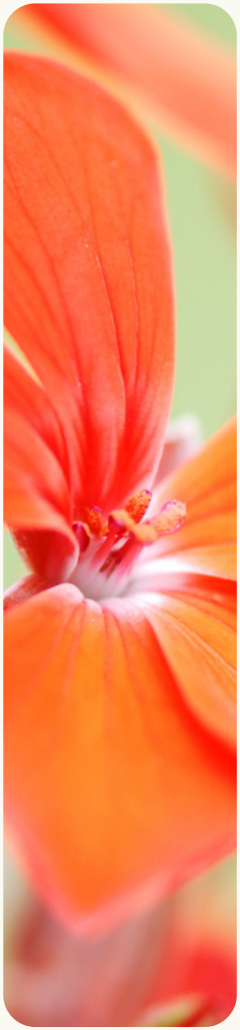

HEAD NOTES
Fresh and light, they are the first notes perceveid, the ones that intrigue and vanish in a matter of minutes.

HEART NOTES
They emerge subsequently and constitute the most powerful notes of a fragrance.

BASE NOTES
They represent olfactory notes of great persistence, which spread slowly and linger for a long time.

Olfactory families

Each perfume can be categorised into one olfactory family, according to its prevailing notes. This classification is not always clear-cut, as a perfume often contains notes belonging to several olfactory families, but it is still a valuable tool to understand the characteristics of different fragrances.

There are seven main olfactory families, divided into:

- Citrus family
- Floral family
- Fougère family
- Chypre family
- Woody family
- Oriental family
- Leather family

Besides these macro-categories, other definitions can also describe the facets of a perfume, thus distinguishing:

- Fruity Fragrances
- Musky Fragrances
- Spicy Fragrances
- Aromatic Fragrances

Understanding the characteristics of the different families is fun and useful, as it helps to choose your perfume even before trying the fragrance.

Citrus Family

Refreshing and lively, perfect for both men and women.

The Citrus or Hesperide family stands out for using essential oils obtained from citrus peels and other related elements such as orange blossom, petit grain or neroli. Citrus fragrances also stand out for their notes of bergamot, lemon, lime, orange, grapefruit, mandarin and their fresh, light accords.

Fun fact

The term "hesperidate" comes from the name of the mythical Hesperides, guardians of the garden of the Golden Apples, which legend has it they were oranges.

Floral Family

Intoxicating and sensual, particularly appreciated by women for its delicacy and sweetness.

The Floral or Flowery family is characterised by the use of a flower or more often a "bouquet"of flowers among its heart notes. Although multifaceted and open to an infinite variety of floral accords, jasmine, rose, lily of the valley and tuberose constitute some of its most representative notes.

Fun fact

The Floral family is one of the largest in the perfume industry, given the large number of notes and scents associated with it.

Fougère Family

Refined and rich in contrasts, this family constitutes a great classic for men.

The Fougère family takes its name from the French equivalent of "fern", but has no connection with the smell of this plant. The perfumes belonging to this family feature lavender, geranium, vetiver and oakmoss accords to which more or less fresh and woody nuances join, with a strong and virile character.

Fun fact

Initially conceived for women, these fragrances are now very popular among men.

Chypre Family

Sharp and enveloping, appreciated by both women and men.

The Chypre family brings together pungent and strong fragrances, characterised by intense notes such as oakmoss, cistus labdanum, patchouli and bergamot. Characterised by fresh, aromatic and floral notes, it embodies the elegance of classic French perfumery.

Fun fact

Its name has nothing to do with the talcum powdery notes, but refers to the Chypre perfume created in 1917 by the French perfume house Coty.

Woody Family

Warm and intense, it includes mainly masculine fragrances.

The Woody or Boisè family is characterised by its deep, evocative notes, which instil a sense of security and warmth. Its fragrances recall woody scents such as cedar, sandalwood or pine, and undergrowth, provided by patchouli or vetiver. These fragrances are often introduced by aromatic or citrus notes.

Fun fact

The first female declinations of the Woody family only began to spread in the '90s.

Oriental Family

Sensual and mysterious, it includes mostly feminine fragrances.

The Oriental or Amber family includes perfumes with sensual and persistent scents. These fragrances are strongly multifaceted and composed of enveloping notes such as myrrh, incense, vanilla, spices and amber. These notes are often combined with hints of spices and opulent flowers.

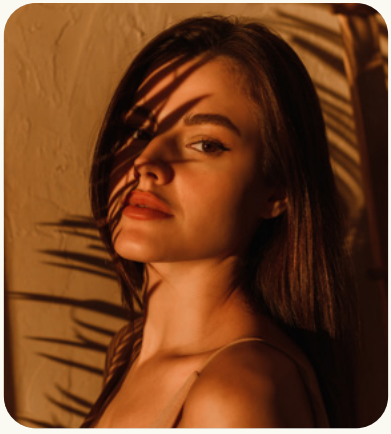

Fun fact

This olfactory family is characterised by the use of golden balsams, animal essences, precious resins and sought-after woods, burnt as far back as 5000 years ago to obtain scents capable of projecting man into a mystical dimension.

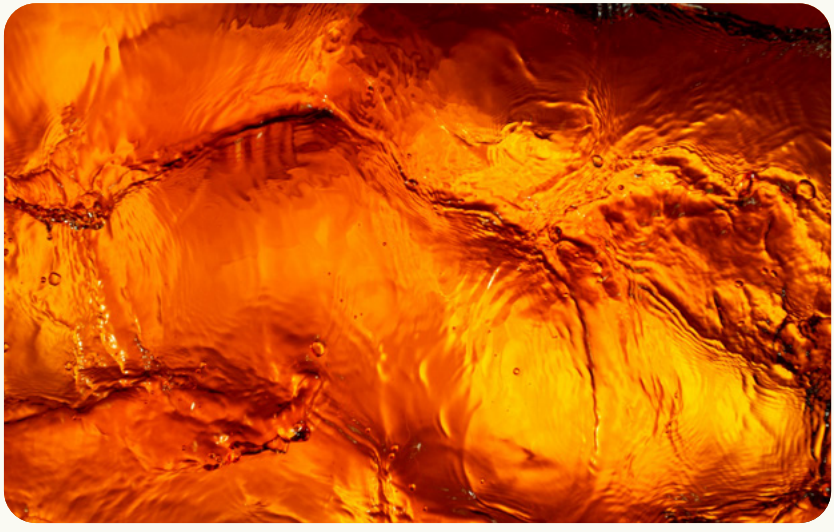

Leather Family

Intense, rich and traditionally masculine, it has recently been cleared also for feminine fragrances.

The Leather family includes fragrances characterised by intense, enveloping notes that evoke the smell of tooled leather and its hints. They are characterised by their smoky scents of burnt wood, birch and tobacco.

Fun fact

In order to sweeten the aroma of these perfumes, alcoholic notes such as rum and whiskey have recently been introduced. These scents, combined with tobacco, evoke British smoking rooms.
